The program for commencement proper has been outlined. Bossons' orchestra of Charleroi has been engaged to furnish special music. There will be no valedictory, owing to the fact that the one who would have been the valedictorian, Miss Anna Rockwell, died during the term. For the same reason the salutatory will be dispensed with. The program in brief is as follows:

SEAMLESS TUBE IS PURCHASED

Monessen Plant Changes
Hands During the Past Week.

GERMAN FIRM IN CHARGE

The patents and machinery for the manufacture of seamless tubing under the Briede system, formerly operated by the Seamless Tube company of America at Monessen, was sold during the past week, it is stated, to the Mannesmann Tube company of Germany and will be run by officers of that company under its present system, but with many improvements added to both plant and equipments.

The mill is to be put in operation under the same methods employed in the plant of the company in Germany, where the system has been perfected, operated, improved and found to be a financial success. The Mannesmann company owns the largest mills in the world, for the manufacture of seamless tubing and is a pioneer in this line. Up to this time its works have been carried on exclusively in Europe.

An official of the Seamless Tube company at Monessen this morning was interviewed, and confirmed in part the statement of the selling of the plant but said it was an old factory.

COAL SHIPMENTS SHOW BIG INCREASE IN FIFTEEN DAYS

Pools Swelled Considerably by the Rains of the Past Few Days and all Mines Along the River are Benefitted.

NEW BOATS AND BARGES TO BE BUILT

The river shipments of coal, nut coal and slack for the first fifteen days of the present month have been largely on the increase and considerably in excess of the total shipments for the month of April.

The total shipment up to and including Saturday, were 8,363,000 bushels being over 8,000,000 more than the entire shipments for the month of April which were handicapped by the depression in the coal trade.

A decided increase can be noticed in other shipments along the river.

The Steamer Dewing and Son delivered two barges of cross ties at North Charleroi wharf last week, consigned to the Pittsburg Railways company and they have been delivered at different points for repairs but principally for the completion of the double track system started some time ago.

The recent rains although not heavy, have been steady and have swelled the pools considerably, and good shipments are being made from all the mines both for local consumption and for southern shipments. Over 15,000,000 bushels of coal left for lower river points on Friday and Saturday.

Kinney Shows Nervousness
When Brought into the Court Room.

Owing to the illness of the chief counsel of Thomas Kinney, to have been placed on trial today on the charge of murdering William Adams, the case was held over until the August term. The case was called this morning when a statement was made that Attorney Harry Williams, for Kinney, was confined to his home by illness, and was unable to be out. His physician's sworn statement was taken, and then Attorney Robert W. Irwin, who is also interested in the defense, made a motion that the case be carried over until the August term and the court so declared.

There was a large number of witnesses present this morning, both for the Commonwealth and for the defense.

Kinney was brought into the court room, fully expecting to be placed on trial. He showed nervousness from the strain, but was apparently prepared. When he saw his wife and brother tears welled in his eyes, but he gave no other demonstration of feeling.

Perils Of Industry.

The disastrous boiler explosion near Brownsville yesterday again emphasizes the perils of modern industry. By this explosion three men were killed and six other persons badly injured. Not only were those employed about the premises the only victims but some who lived in the proximity of the plant were also sufferers, by which it will be seen that a big industrial plant is a deadly menace to life and property alike.

In disasters of this kind it is always difficult to place the real responsibility. In the majority of cases direful accidents are due to carelessness or neglect of duty on the part of some operative. In the most of the dangerous occupations the law endeavors to safeguard the operatives, and if regulations and restriction are rigidly complied with the danger of accident is usually reduced to a minimum. It is the unexpected that always happens, however, and when an operative is responsible he usually pays the penalty with his life. Eternal vigilance is the price of safety, and when human life is involved it cannot be too searching.

Peace.

Whatever may be said about Andrew Carnegie, his efforts toward peace between nations as well as men, will be further reaching than his public beneficences. Some of his utterances along this line put the aspect of war and valor in an entirely different light than that which has been popularly accepted. He says:

"Advance in civilization was impossible while war reigned. Only as wars became less frequent and long intervals of peace intervened, could civilization, the mother of true heroism, take root. Civilization has advanced just as war has receded, until in our day peace has become the rule and war the exception. Arbitration of international disputes grows more and more in favor."

"In the past man's only method for removing obstacles and attaining desired ends was to use brute courage. The advance of civilization has developed moral courage. We use more beneficent means than men did of old. Britain in the eighteenth century used force to prevent American independence. In more recent times she graciously grants Canada the rights denied America; and instead of coercing the Dutch in South Africa, wins them by granting self-government. The greatest force is no longer that of brutal war, which sows the seeds of future wars, but the supreme force of gentleness and generosity—the golden rule."

It was Dr. N. C. Schaffer, State Superintendent of Education, who deprecated the "drum and trumpet" methods of teaching history in our public schools. It is not the history of wars, he says, that should instill patriotism in the hearts of the pupils, but the history of peace. Arbitration is banishing war, and the pen is rapidly superseding the sword. The false idea that brute force ranks with moral courage should no longer find a place in human ethics.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Because a man laughs as though he were enjoying himself occasionally some people imagine that he is off balance mentally.

While it wouldn't be advisable to go bathing during this weather, neither would it be advisable to try ice skating.

Charleroi will be so busy celebrating this summer that the fellows won't have time to work.

Monongahela thinks that it is due for a new station from the Pennsylvania Railroad company. As long as the people of that place do nothing more than think about it they are safe, and will never be molested by the company.

If time were money, as some philosophers assert, there would be millions to burn around this section.

Big City Improvements.

You may talk of big bridges and parks, and such, but after all "they are not so much." The greatest improvements a city can know, are improvements that into its houses go.

HIS VOCABULARY.

It Was Real Literary, According to the Wily Stenographer.

The beautiful typewriter girl puffed out her golden pompadour nervously, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. "My speed 'll increase, Mr. Meer—excuse me, Wellington—my speed 'll increase 30 to 40 per cent every day."

Broker Wellington frowned. The girl had taken his dictation slowly and in a stern, skeptical voice he said, "How so?"

"It's your new vocabulary that puts me out," she explained. "I had Mr. Meer's vocabulary very pat—as per contents noted, 'the same'—he only used about 300 words." Her dithering smile warmed the man like a sun-beam. "But you, sir, have a real literary style. 'Beg to submit,' our best attendants, 'submit,' 'hypothesize'—they're all new words to me, and of course I can't rattle them off very fast at first. But just you wait, till you hear to-morrow. Then you'll see."

"All business men have different vocabularies that their stenographers must get accustomed to, eh?" said the broker.

"Yes, sir; some large, some small." Again her smile flattered him. "Yours is larger than most. I should say it was thirty or forty words larger. Real literary, I call it."

"Miss Huskins, if there's—er—any supplies you need all you've got to do is ask," said the literary broker fatuously.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

All of the new neckwear is soft. Stocks are returning to favor, and also chokers of felt, tulle, chiffon and fine lace.

Waist bands all demand to dress at the waist itself and fullness of trim ming above the waist line, even where the material is not actually full.

All the season's shirt waists open in the front. The new note lies in the fluted edges of the front box fasten ing. On each side of this there is a close, fine, plaited ruffling of self goods extending not more than an inch.

All the new waists have fitted girdles or belts, draped or plain, but a concession is made to those to whom the long front is really becoming by the introduction of long vests, of plastrons of lace, of bands of lace and silk or of fine fabrics—Hartner's Bazar.

Effective Home Cure for Tuberculosis

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanatorium is not only tremendously expensive, but it involves separation from home and friends. Some are so afflicted, but none can safely return to their homes. Eckman's Alternative is effective in curing Bronchitis, Asthma and more serious affections of the lungs. No leaving home and friends is necessary. For instance:—211 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J. Gentlemen: In the fall of 1906, I contracted a very severe cold which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise sputum and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alternative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve, and the next week in January 1907, I resumed my regular occupation having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now four years since my cure has been effected and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly. I have recommended it to others with excellent results. W. M. TATEM, Eckman's Alternative is sold for all Throat and Lung troubles, and is on sale in Charleroi by W. F. Hennings and other druggists. It can also be obtained at, or procured by, your local druggist. Ask for Booklet of Cured Cases or write for evidence to the Eckman Laboratory, Phila., Pa.

ODD JOBS ON WARSHIPS.

Many Ways For the Bluejackets to Make Extra Money.

The possible methods of making extra money on shipboard are manifold. "Tailoring" is one of the most profitable. While a ship's tailor is detailed to most of our ships, his duties are limited to making necessary alterations in the uniforms which are issued to the members of the crew. Many enlisted men own sewing machines, upon which they do repair work, and they also do odd jobs for officers, such as pressing and cleaning. A handy man with the needle can also make a handsome sum by doing fancy work. Some of the most delicate embroidery work has been done by sailors.

The ship's barber also makes a comfortable living in addition to his regular pay, and the distribution of prizes at target practice enriches the coffers of the gun crew by a considerable sum. Men who are detailed to duty on board submarine boats are allowed an additional $5 a month and besides $1 a day for every day the boat is submerged. Bluejackets detailed as assignmen, as cockswains of power boats or in charge of boats are allowed extra pay. A crew messman receives $5 a month for performing that somewhat menial function, and the man who is not ashamed to "take in washing" can easily double his navy pay. Every bluejacket is expected to perform the mending himself, but there are always men who prefer to pay for having the service done.

One of the novel methods of earning an honest penny is for a man with a descriptive knack—usually a yeoman—to prepare an interesting letter upon the cruise of the ship or some of the strange ports visited, the honors paid the vessel, the entertainments offered and describing the customs of the inhabitants. These letters are manifold and sold to the members of the crew for 50 cents to $1 a copy—and usually cheap at that. The parents or relatives of the sailor boy thus are kept informed of his adventures and experiences and he is relieved of a task that is irksome to most boys.—John R. Cox in National Magazine.

Nature's Armor.

Lobsters and crabs are familiar examples of armor bearing creatures. The lobsters have wonderful coats of mail suggestive of those devised by human warriors in the age of chivalry. They combine perfect security with ease of movement, owing to their jointed structure. The manner in which crabs when at rest tuck their legs beneath them so as to bring them under the shelter of the hard carapace is interesting. The crab is doubly protected, for it resembles a water worn pebble, and thus looks to large fishes which like to eat the crustacean—so long as it keeps still—very similar to the objects with which it is surrounded.

Cutting the Finger Nails.

Cutting the finger nails appears to have been the most indispensable service the ancient Roman barber rendered to his patrons. Martial, chaffing a fellow who had tried to do the barber by using plasters to remove his beard, asks triumphantly, "How are you going to manage about your nails?" And the miser in Plautus collects the parings of his nails from the barber to make something out of them, apparently never dreaming that he could save money by cutting them himself.

SEAMLESS TUBE IS PURCHASED

Hands During the Past Week.

GERMAN FIRM IN CHARGE

The patents and machinery for the manufacture of seamless tubing under the Briede system, formerly operated by the Seamless Tube company of America at Monessen, was sold during the past week, it is stated, to the Mannesmann Tube company of Germany and will be run by officers of that company under its present system, but with many improvements added to both plant and equipments.

The mill is to be put in operation under the same methods employed in the plant of the company in Germany, where the system has been perfected, operated, improved and found to be a financial success. The Mannesmann company owns the largest mills in the world, for the manufacture of seamless tubing and is a pioneer in this line. Up to this time its works have been carried on exclusively in Europe.

An official of the Seamless Tube company at Monessen this morning was interviewed, and confirmed in part the statement of the selling of the plant but said it was an old factory.

Monon. Gets New Plant.

COAL SHIPMENTS SHOW BIG INCREASE IN FIFTEEN DAYS

Pools Swelled Considerably by the Rains of the Past Few Days and all Mines Along the River are Benefitted.

NEW BOATS AND BARGES TO BE BUILT

The river shipments of coal, nut coal and slack for the first fifteen days of the present month have been largely on the increase and considerably in excess of the total shipments for the month of April.

The total shipment up to and including Saturday, were 3,363,000 bushels being over 3,000,000 more than the entire shipments for the month of April which were handicapped by the depression in the coal trade.

A decided increase can be noticed in other shipments along the river. The Steamer Dewing and Son delivered two barges of cross ties at North Charleroi wharf last week, consigned to the Pittsburg Railway company and they have been delivered at different points for repairs but principally for the completion of the double track system started some time ago.

The recent rains although not heavy, have been steady and have swelled the pools considerably, and good shipments are being made from all the mines both for local consumption and for southern shipments. Over 15,000,000 bushels of coal left for lower river points on Friday and Saturday, and other shipments will be made should the river keep up to a good shipping stage.

Superintendent George S. Nutt of the U. S. Engineers boat yards at North Charleroi, who has been absent for several days, arrived home Saturday, having completed inspection of a large shipment of pine and hemlock lumber which was recently contracted for by the U. S. engineers and consigned to the local boat yards at North Charleroi. Four cars have already arrived and it will be used in the construction of new boats and barges. One of the former to be completed first will be what is known as a "scraper" boat and "bulldozer" combined. The former term is applied to a modern craft fitted out with large scrapers, derricks and machinery suitable for scraping out and cleaning the channels and shoal places where it is not practical to use the larger steam dredges. The "bulldozer" end of the affair will be used in breaking up the heavy ice in winter time. The force in the Government boat yards has been increased and considerable new work will be done during the coming summer.

Kinney Shows Nervousness
When Brought into the Court Room.

Owing to the illness of the chief counsel of Thomas Kinney, to have been placed on trial today on the charge of murdering William Adams, the case was held over until the August term. The case was called this morning when a statement was made that Attorney Harry Williams, for Kinney, was confined to his home by illness, and was unable to be out. His physician's sworn statement was taken, and then Attorney Robert W. Irwin, who is also interested in the defense, made a motion that the case be carried over until the August term and the court so declared.

There was a large number of witnesses present this morning, both for the Commonwealth and for the defense.

Kinney was brought into the court room, fully expecting to be placed on trial. He showed nervousness from the strain, but was apparently prepared. When he saw his wife and brother tears welled in his eyes, but he gave no other demonstration of feeling.

Perils Of Industry.

The disastrous boiler explosion near Brownsville yesterday again emphasizes the perils of modern industry. By this explosion three men were killed and six other persons badly injured. Not only were those employed about the premises the only victims but some who lived in the proximity of the plant were also sufferers, by which it will be seen that a big industrial plant is a deadly menace to life and property alike.

In disasters of this kind it is always difficult to place the real responsibility. In the majority of cases direful accidents are due to carelessness or neglect of duty on the part of some operative. In the most of the dangerous occupations the law endeavors to safeguard the operatives, and if regulations and restriction are rigidly complied with the danger of accident is usually reduced to a minimum. It is the unexpected that always happens, however, and when an operative is responsible he usually pays the penalty with his life. Eternal vigilance is the price of safety, and when human life is involved it cannot be too searching.

Peace.

Whatever may be said about Andrew Carnegie, his efforts toward peace between nations as well as men, will be further reaching than his public benefactions. Some of his utterances along this line put the aspect of war and valor in an entirely different light than that which has been popularly accepted. He says:

"Advance in civilization was impossible while war reigned. Only as wars became less frequent and long intervals of peace intervened, could civilization, the mother of true heroism, take root. Civilization has advanced just as war has receded, until in our day peace has become the rule and war the exception. Arbitration of international disputes grows more and more in favor."

"In the past man's only method for removing obstacles and attaining desired ends was to use brute courage. The advance of civilization has developed moral courage. We use more beneficent means than men did of old. Britain in the eighteenth century used force to prevent American independence. In more recent times she graciously grants Canada the rights denied America; and instead of coercing the Dutch in South Africa, wins them by granting self-government. The greatest force is no longer that of brutal war, which sows the seeds of future wars, but the supreme force of gentleness and generosity—the golden rule."

It was Dr. N. C. Schaffer, State Superintendent of Education, who deprecated the "drum and trumpet" methods of teaching history in our public schools. It is not the history of wars, he says, that should instill patriotism in the hearts of the pupils, but the history of peace. Arbitration is banishing war, and the pen is rapidly superseding the sword. The false idea that brute force ranks with moral courage should no longer find a place in human ethics.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Because a man laughs as though he were enjoying himself occasionally some people imagine that he is off balance mentally.

While it wouldn't be advisable to go bathing during this weather, neither would it be advisable to try ice skating.

Charleroi will be so busy celebrating this summer that the fellows won't have time to work.

Monongahela thinks that it is due for a new station from the Pennsylvania Railroad company. As long as the people of that place do nothing more than think about it they are safe, and will never be molested by the company.

If time were money, as some philosophers assert, there would be millionaires to burn around this section.

It's a good thing they don't always make public the names of residents, after the taking of the census. If they did, women would be pulling hair all the time.

It's exasperating for another man to ask you what kind of a machine you have, when he sees you wearing an automobile coat. It's especially so if you are a truthful man.

"Ah wants to buy a razab, sah." "What kind, safety?" No sah, ab done wants it fo social purposes."

It does not necessarily take a school boy to burn midnight oil. For instance, a miner might burn it.

A man who started to cure by fasting one of the ills that flesh is heir to has made the discovery that it cured all ailments in his case. Having become defunct he is free from all diseases, even the fever called living—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Big City Improvements.

You may talk of big bridges and parks, and such, but after all "they are not so much." The greatest improvements a city can know, are improvements that into its houses go.

For 'tis "home" where the people all really live, and we want there the best that the world can give. That's why Chi-Namel is used so much by Americans, English and Irish and Dutch. Its the greatest finish that's known for wood, and one has found an other as good. Fill knot holes, nail holes and all other crevices with Chi-Namel Crack Filler, then apply the Ready-to-use Graining Process and make cheap hard wood or old painted wood look like new high grade oak—light, dark or golden. HIS VOCABULARY.

It Was Real Literary, According to the Willy Stenographer.

The beautiful typewriter girl puffed out her golden pompadour nervously, says the Philadelphia Bulletin. "My speed 'll increase, Mr. Meer—excuse me, Wellington—my speed 'll increase 30 to 40 per cent every day."

Broker Wellington frowned. The girl had taken his dictation slowly. And in a stern, skeptical voice he said, "How so?"

"It's your new vocabulary that puts me out," she explained. "I had Mr. Meer's vocabulary very put—as per, contents noted, 'the same'—he only used about 300 words." Her flattering smile warmed the man like a sunbeam. "But you, sah, have a real literary style. 'Beg to submit,' 'our best attention,' 'slump,' 'unish,' 'hypothesize'—there're all new words to me, and of course I can't rattle them off very fast at first. But just you wait, sah, till day after tomorrow. Then you'll see."

"All business men have different vocabularies that their stenographers must get accustomed to, eh?" said the broker.

"Yes, sir; some large, some small." Again her smile dazzled him. "Yours is larger than most. I should say it was thirty or forty words larger. Real literary, I call it."

"Miss Hoskins, if there's—er—any supplies you need all you've got to do is ask," said the literary broker fatuously.

Another Supply Arrived.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

All of the new neckwear is soft stock, are returning to favor, and also choikers of folded tulle chiffon and fine lawn.

Waist forms all demand trimness at the waist itself and fullness of trimming around the bust. It is a common error the material is not actually full.

All the season's shirt waists open in the front. The new note lies in the ruffled edges of the front box fastening. On each side of this there is a close, fine, plaited ruffling of self goods extending not more than an inch.

All the new waists have fitted girdles or belts, draped or plain, but a concession is made to those to whom the long front is really becoming by the introduction of long vests, of plastrons of lace, of bands of lace and silk or of one fabric.—Harner's Bazar.

Effective Home Cure for Tuberculosis

It is a serious matter when the lungs are affected. A trip away or to a sanatorium is not only tremendously expensive, but it involves separation from home and friends. Some are benefited; but none can safely return to their homes. Eckman's Alternative is effective in curing Bronchitis, Asthma and more serious affections of the lungs. No leaving home and friends is necessary. For instance: 231 S. Atlantic Ave., Haddonfield, N. J. "I contracted a very severe cold, which settled on my lungs. At last I began to raise spittle, and my physician then told me I must go to California immediately. At this time I was advised to take Eckman's Alternative. I stayed at home and commenced taking it the last week in October. I began to improve, and the first week in January 1906, I resumed my regular occupation, having gained 25 pounds, fully restored to health. It is now four years since my cure has been effected and I cannot praise Eckman's Alternative too highly. I have recommended it to others with excellent results." (Signed) W. M. TATEM. Eckman's Alternative is good for all Throat and Lung troubles, and is on sale in Charleroi by W. F. Hennings and other druggists. It can also be obtained at, or procured by, your local druggist. Ask for Booklet of Cured Cases or write for evidence to the Eckman Laboratory, Phila., Pa.

ODD JOBS ON WARSHIPS.

Many Ways For the Bluejackets to Make Extra Money.

The possible methods of making extra money on shipboard are manifold. "Tailoring" is one of the most profitable. While a ship's tailor is detailed to most of our ships, his duties are limited to making necessary alterations in the uniforms which are issued to the members of the crew. Many enlisted men own sewing machines, upon which they do repair work, and they also do odd jobs for officers, such as pressing and cleaning. A handy man with the needle can also make a handsome sum by doing fancy work. Some of the most delicate embroidery work has been done by sailors.

The ship's barber also makes a comfortable living in addition to his regular pay, and the distribution of prizes at target practice enriches the coffers of the gun crew by a considerable sum. Men who are detailed to duty on board submarine boats are allowed an additional $5 a month and besides $1 a day for every day the boat is submerged. Bluejackets detailed as signalmen, as cockswains of power boats or in charge of boats are allowed extra pay. A crew messman receives $5 a month for performing the somewhat menial function, and the man who is not ashamed to "take in washing" can easily double his main pay. Every bluejacket is expected to perform the mauling himself, but there are always men who prefer to pay for having the service done.

One of the novel methods of earning an honest penny is for a man with a descriptive knack--usually a yeoman to prepare an interesting letter upon the cruise of the ship or some of the strange ports visited, the honors paid the vessel, the entertainments offered and describing the customs of the inhabitants. These letters are manifold and sold to the members of the crew for 50 cents to $1 a copy--and usually cheap at that. The parents or relatives of the sailor boy thus are kept informed of his adventures and experiences and he is relieved of a task that is irksome to most boys. John R. Cox in National Magazine.

Inquisitive.

"Your husband is of a studious turn of mind, isn't he?"
"Yes, indeed. Whenever we have hash he isn't satisfied unless he knows everything that is in it."--Detroit Free Press.

Reprieved Again.

"I am told that there are some fine scores to the credit of Herr Batontapper," ventured Mr. Cumrox during a lull in the artistic conversation.
"My dear," said his wife, "we were discussing music, not baseball."--Washington Star.

Nature's Armor.

Lobsters and crabs are familiar examples of armor bearing creatures. The lobsters have wonderful coats of mail suggestive of those devised by human warriors in the age of chivalry. They combine perfect security with ease of movement, owing to their jointed structure. The manner in which crabs when at rest tuck their legs beneath them so as to bring them under the shelter of the hard carapace is interesting. The crab is doubly protected, for it resembles a water worn pebble, and thus looks to large fishes which like to eat the crustacean--so long as it keeps still--very similar to the objects with which it is surrounded.

Cutting the Finger Nails.

Cutting the finger nails appears to have been the most indispensable service the ancient Roman barber rendered to his patrons. Martial chiding a fop who had tried to dodge the barber by using plasters to remove his beard, asks triumphantly, "How are you going to manage about your nails?" And the miser in Plautus collects the parings of his nails from the barber to make something out of them, apparently never dreaming that he could save money by cutting them himself.
